

Certification for the traceability of post-consumer recyclates - an overview

Information

Description: The standards and certificates for recyclates and recyclability are constantly increasing. But for whom is the Blue Angel good and for whom, for example, EuCertPlast? What role does the Central Packaging Register Agency play and what does all this (not) say about recyclability? We give a compact, practical overview of European and German standards and evaluate them. After the web seminar, you will know the essential certifiers, certificates and be able to classify them for your purpose or your customers.

Target group: Recommended for anyone interested in certified traceability of post consumer recyclates and needing an overview. Suitable for recyclers but also for plastic colouring and packers.
